EMERGING MARKETS ETF FED FUNDS SECURITIES METHODOLOGY

On the most recent Friday immediately preceding the Initial Valuation Date and on every second Friday of the successive two week periods thereafter that is an Exchange Day, or if any such Friday is not an Exchange Day, on the immediately preceding Exchange Day (each, an “Allocation Date”), the Strategy will compare the Closing Level of the Tracked Index on such Allocation Date to its average Closing Level over the 100 Exchange Days including and immediately preceding such Allocation Date (the “Moving Average”) to determine the composition of the Portfolio for the following two week period.

If the Closing Level of the Tracked Index on any Allocation Date is equal to or greater than its Moving Average, the Portfolio for the immediately following two week period will be composed of the Underlying Securities of the ETF.

If the Closing Level of the Tracked Index on any Allocation Date is less than its Moving Average, the Portfolio for the immediately following two week period will be composed of a Deposit.

Clients should evaluate the financial, market, legal, regulatory, credit, tax and accounting risks and consequences of the proposal before entering into any transaction, or purchasing any instrument. The Debt Securities will not constitute deposits insured under the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act.

An investment in the Debt Securities involves risks. An investment in the Debt Securities is not the same as a direct investment in a Deposit or the Underlying Securities and investors have no rights with respect to the Deposit, the Underlying Securities, the ETF or the securities comprising the Tracked Index. The Debt Securities are considered to be “specified derivatives” under applicable Canadian securities laws. If you purchase Debt Securities, you will be exposed to changes in the prices of the Underlying Securities and fluctuations in interest rates, among other factors. Price changes may be volatile and an investment in the Debt Securities may be considered to be speculative. Since the Debt Securities are not principal protected and the Principal Amount will be at risk, you could lose substantially all of your investment.

The Debt Securities are not fixed income securities and are not designed to be alternatives to fixed income or money market instruments. The Debt Securities are structured products that possess downside risk.

The initial estimated value of the Debt Securities set forth on the cover page of the applicable Pricing Supplement does not take into account the ongoing fees and expenses applicable during the term of the Debt Securities, including the ongoing annual component of the Note Program Amount, or any Canadian foreign tax credits or deductions which may be available to the Bank in respect of foreign withholding taxes which may apply to dividends and other distributions received by the Bank if the Bank were to hedge its obligations under the Debt Securities by acquiring the Underlying Securities.
